A GRAND SIGHT.

One of the Greatest Displays of the Aurora Borealis

Dr Northern Lights Fire Witnessed for This Continent—It Was Seen at Hillsboro' Points Telegraph Wires Stretching Northward Affected by It.

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.—A gorgeous illumination of the heavens was visible Saturday night at either over a thousand miles apart. It was the most wonderful exhibition of the aurora or northern lights possible ever seen from American soil. Dispatches to the Associated Press show that the phenomenon stretched over a great belt of territory from Iowa to the Atlantic coast. The magnificent spectacle was scientifically observed at the university of Michigan in Ann Arbor. Astronomical Observer W. J. Hussey, of that institution, wires the result to the Associated Press as follows:

"The brilliant rose red aurora visible Saturday night was altogether the most perfect. In a general way auroras have been predicted for about this time, but only nights display naturally follows the appearance of the great sun spot which has been visible during the past week. Other aurora displays may be expected in the near future."

Other dispatches to the Associated Press show that the phenomenon was witnessed at New York, Boston, Cincinnati, Cleveland Columbus, Toledo, Detroit, Indianapolis and at little points and towns in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas City or Memphis. At Cincinnati it was at first supposed that the city of Hamilton, twenty-five miles north was on fire.

The Associated Press correspondent at Ironia, Ia., gives a typical description as follows:

From east to west the northern sky here was illuminated by an immense half circle fleecing upward nearly to the zenith. At first blushed, it changed at times to delicate pink, and would brighten suddenly. The circle was shot with rays of almost white lights, all pointed outward from the circle. It began at 6:45 p m and for an hour was a gorgeous sight. At 8 o'clock it began disappearing. The weather had been very warm throughout the day, but after the aurora rapidly grew colder.

Though not seen at St Paul or Minneapolis, the aurora was plainly witnessed in Milwaukee. A peculiar disturbance known to telegraphers as an electric storm greatly bothered operators working wires stretching north from the city but did not materially affect the lines going east and west.

POWERFUL MUSCLE

A Steamboat Captain Kills a Stanhope Man of Quick Temper, Cranking His Shaft.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 15.—A remarkable killing happened in Clay county a few days ago the news just reaching here. Murray Stearns, a gambler and general loafer, boarded the steamer Flower, and when the steamer was well under way he was refused to pay his passage. The captain proposed to put him off the steamer at the next landing, which was miles above Stearns, who was drunk, became obstreperous, cursing and swearing and threatening to kill every mate it he touched him. Capt. Armstrong remonstrated, and Stearns cursed him, making a motion as though the captain with a knife. Armstrong struck him a terrible blow on the head with his fist, crushing the skull inward. The man nauer recovered consciousness, dying in a few hours.

BEATS THE RECORD

Eleven Children Born to a Pennsylvania Couple in Five Years.

EAST LIVERPOOL, Ill. Feb. 18.—Michael Jacobs, of Philadelphia, whose boyhood days were spent in this city is visiting old-time friends here with his family. There is a peculiarity about this family which is one to be envied or paralleled. Joyce was married a score ago to a young lady of Phœnixville, Pa. and during the Spring of two years of their married life the couple became the parents of eleven children. The first were triplets the second triplets, the third twins and the fourth triplets. All are living and in the enjoyment of excellent health. The family is not a small woman, weighing apparently not more than one hundred pounds, and is in the evident possession of unbroken red health. The father is an ordinary appearing man, who is very proud of his achievements in the family line

A SECOND MESSIAH.

A Whole Community Religion Mad—A Newspaper Baby Credited with Being a New Redeemer.

DUNQUE, La., Feb. 15.—News comes from Iroil ill, or as it is called, the New Jerusalem. In Jackson county, that the Free Methodists of that section have gone wild over a religious craze. Revival meetings are being held, and the entire community has become converted and every religious matter. People come for miles around to attend the meeting. The climax of excitement was reached when the announcement was made in New Jerusalem that a lady had given birth to a child, which the promoters of the meetings declared was none other than a second Messiah. The entire community is perfectly wild with joy, and the statement is almost universally believed.

Wanamaker a Successful Dad.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Postmaster-General Wanamaker is a happy man. having made $1,000,000 in the recent Philadelphia and Reading deal. He has long been a holder of the stock of the stock with varying fluctuations, but his faith in the end has made him richer by a cool million.

Tammany Will Support Bill.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—At a conference held Sunday night between Grey, Hill and the chiefs of Tammany Hall they pledged him their support, and will instruct all delegates to the convention of February 22 to vote for him.

Express Robbers Sentenced.

MT. GILEAD, O., Feb. 15.—James Carey was sent up for two years for burglarizing the U. S. Express office at Marengo, this county, last summer. Carey, with his partner in crime, escaped from the Morrow county jail about two months ago, but was recaptured. His comrade has not as yet been again taken into custody.

Town Almost Destroyed.

NEWPORT, Ark., Feb. 13.—The town of Murray station on the Iron Mountain road several miles north of here, was almost completely wiped out by fire.

MOSTLY GUESSWORK,

The Annual Pageant Too Much for the Scientists.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Prof. Wm. Harkness, of the U. S. Naval observatory, in speaking to a Post reporter on the subject of the total eclipse of Saturday night, said that although the sight was a very fine one yet the greatest delight to the astronomer he had ever witnessed was in 1878 or 1879, when the lights were been in the south as far south as "Hades or Orcus," he ventioned, have been advanced as to the cause and extent of the aurora, but after all it is but a mere guesswork. It would seem easy enough to determine whether when the lights are visible at the north pole they are visible at the south, yet this point has never been settled. If the theory that the lights are caused by electric current thrown off from the pole be true, they should be visible both north and south with equal brilliancy. We have records of observations at early as 1716. I think it is a fact that auroras come in cycles of about every twelve years, and the coming August is the nearly accurate time. It is possible—yes, I will say probable that more auroras will come in the near future. The magnificent display of Saturdays were great. The magnetic needles in the observatory were affected

THE MINE TROUBLES

The Tennessee Troops Capture a lot of Dynamite—There is Continued Shooting on Both Sides.

COALTOWN, Tenn., Feb. 18 company D, second regiment Tennessee state troops, with the battle flag proudly a six-pound howitzer, commanded by Capt. Keller Anderson, has just been added to the forces operating in and around the town and the railway approaches.

A number of shots have been exchanged almost every evening since Thursday. Several miners are reported wounded. Trouble is apprehended both sides and both are confident of victory. The troops fired over the town the greatest excitement prevailing. Tuesday of a raid on the military camp was heard on all sides.

The firing during the shooting fray at the tough element. The troops are acting very insolently toward the citizens, and a renewal of the outbreak is expected at any moment. The postmaster was fired upon and drove into the breastworks last Thursday night.

A man at Clinton, Tenn., is reported to have died from a bullet wound received three weeks ago. One other person of ten is working 13 convicts who are strongly guarded. Troops are stationed at three points, but everything is quiet there. The shooting was done after dark. The troops captured a lot of dynamite on Watkins Hollow quarry.

SAPPHIRE SEARCHERS

A Wild Rush to the Yogo Placer Mines in Helena, Mont.

HELENA, Mont., Feb. 16.—The rush to the sapphire mines at Yogo City in Missouri river, near Helena, still continues. Every day locating notices are filed with the county clerk. The clerk Just what state the title to these various claims are in it is hard to say. The excitement is increasing by two or three times. Not only is the ground on both sides of the river taken up, but claims are made for five miles back and channel so that he cannot be overlooked in the region of country covering the famous sapphire fields, called by some the new Golconda of Montana. The river for miles is up and down the sapphire fields will be a lively place this spring and summer and will present a scene not unlike that witnessed in the palmy days of the famous Alder gulch, which poured a mighty stream of the yellow metal to the world.

The $ 5-Cent Rate Ready

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—The ways and means committee will report three tariff bills to the house during the present week. One will be introduced upon at the meeting of the democratic majority, and the measures to be reported are the Springer free wool bill, the Bryan free binding wire bill, and the Turner bill, placing cotton ties, cotton bagging and jute bagging on the free list.

Thousand-Mile Tickets

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 16.—Another railroad bill made its appearance, being introduced by Mr. Harshbarger, of Shelby county. It provides that railroad companies must sell one thousand-mile tickets for $20, good for one year, to cents a mile, and must make them transferable, and permit two or more persons to ride on a $ 1 the company taking out as much fare as there are passengers.

The Prince to Pay Us a Visit.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 16.—According to a special dispatch received in this city, the prince of Wales and suite of twenty-five persons or pass through Albany on May 27 on their way to Niagara Falls, where two floors at the Clifton have been engaged. The exact destination is Ottawa. The object of this visit of the prince is not disclosed.

Warden Dyer Sued for Damages

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 16.—Ignatius Kubanyi, of the Youngstown rioters, who was arrested with Mrs Fitzgerald, wife of the executed anarchist of that name, for taking mantels away from the state prison without the warden's consent, has sued Warden Dyer for $10,000 damages for false arrest.

Fatal Quarrel Between Cousins

STILLWATER, Minn., Feb. 16.—C. H. and Charles Countryman, cousins quarreled about the ownership of a race horse here. Words led to blows, and in the fight Charles drew a revolver and shot C. H. Countryman ran times, killing him instantly.

Famine in Montenegro

VIENNA, Feb. 16.—Owing to the failure of the crops and the high price of grain Russian sucor, famine is causing wide-spread distress in Montenegro. The state of affairs has resulted in a wholesale emigration of people of the country to Turkey.

KENTUCKY STATE NEWS.

Legislative Proceedings.

FRANKFORT, Feb. 8.—SENATE.—But a solitary item is rounded in the morning session. Would have been transacted as a quorum was not present. The clerks were put to reading the journal, which consumed a great deal of time and the senate adjourned.

HOUSE.—The special order for Dudley in the house was the standard resolution requiring a report from various officials in their respective bailiwicks as to the number of convicts employed, which it was fixed into the orders of the day, and will be taken up Monday.

Bills on municipal regulations regarding the collection of taxes in Simpson county. It was favorably reported, and it went into the orders of the day with a number of other bills. A local resolution, instructing representatives and senators in congress to bring the claims of the Louisville life saving station before congress, was adopted. Mr. Hite objected to this on the ground that the present assembly had no business to instruct the congress. It was pointed out that said station is the only life saving station in the United States, and that many lives have been saved, and property to the amount of millions of dollars preserved, and that the bill before the national congress in addition to the pay of crews for the service, asked for a small appropriation for the maintenance of the station at Louisville as well. The resolution passed the house and will probably pass the senate. Several bills were introduced, two items went into a committee of the whole to consider the matter of appropriations, Section 1, Article 1, relating to the appointment of commissioners of the penitentiary, was discussed, and the house adjourned until the time of adjournment, but nothing was settled.

FRANKFORT, Feb. 9.—SENATE.—Mr. Myer introduced a resolution changing the first, second, Third and Fourth congressional districts from ten counties each to nine counties each to a term in the penitentiary, to designate the counties that are to be changed. The bill to amend section 3, 4 and 5 of an act to amend section 3, 4 and 5 of an act to amend section 3, 4 and 5 of an act

THE HICKMAN COURIER.

HICKMAN, KY.,

FRIDAY, : : : : FEB. 19, 1892.

FOR SHERIFF.

We are authorized to announce M. D. JOHNSON as a candidate for Sheriff of Fulton county, at the coming election.

We are authorized to announce W. A. SHUCK as a candidate for Sheriff of Fulton county at the August election, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

ARIZONA and Oklahoma will probably be admitted as States during this Congress.

—The two factions of the Democratic party in Louisville will compromise by putting an entire new ticket in the field.

THE Ohio Legislature in considering the resolution to investigate the election of Senator Hiter has agreed that the matter be left to the United States Senate.

THE Harrison administration has been spending so much money on its war with Chili that it is compelled to economize by stopping the fast-mail trains to the west.

THE Ways and Means Committee of the House is harmonious now and will push the attack on the McKinley bill. So, let it open and push it when it does open.

THE early convention movement in New York is having its effect in the Northwest. A combination of five States for Cleveland is reported as no effect to the Hill boom.

THE New York Tribune seconds the New York Herald's nomination of Henry Waterson for President. If this thing keeps on, the gallant Kentuckian will be elected by acclamation.

THE business men of Louisville are making a hard fight against the proposed tax law, which will increase the taxation of corporations by making them pay on the value of their franchises.

THE United States and Great Britain have agreed that the Behring Sea dispute should be arbitrated by France, Italy and Spain. That we accept Italy as an arbitrator shows the confidence our country has in its case.

THE white Republicans of South Carolina are trying to separate themselves from the black in the hope that it will make them more respectable. But the only way of a Republican, white or black, to become more respectable is to become less Republican.

THE proposed bank inspection by a State officer, and other restrictions upon banking operations, meets with great favor. It is something that has been long needed, and if it had been in force the rotten bank failures in Louisville last year could not have occurred.

A REDUCTION of the tax on woollen goods to 35 per cent. ad valorem would save the people millions on woollen clothing and at the same time give an increasing revenue to the Government. The Democratic party will unite to a man in favor of free wool and cheap clothing.

A REPUBLICAN correspondent gives a significant reason for the declination of Mr. Blaine. He says Republicans in Washington think it was because Mr. Blaine was satisfied that no Republican could carry New York this year and, therefore, no Republican could be elected.

GENERAL BENJAMIN F. BUTLER once the dry nurse of the rag baby, is now opposed to having the currency with silver. And, moreover, he says he doesn't care if his inconsistency "does raise a storm about his ears." The erratic thing about this is that he thinks what he thinks still makes a difference to any one besides himself.

FRANCE affords a striking illustration of the natural effect of the high tariff system, which is worth more as a practical object lesson than all the special pleading of the protected classes and their paid advocates. The government adopted a high tariff schedule, and a cable dispatch says that prices are rapidly rising in consequence.

KENTUCKY has long been noted for supplying the best things to eat and drink—and more of it; the finest horses, biggest and greatest men, and now comes to the front with the largest woman. She is known as the "Giant Girl of Missouri," whose "folks," though now of Missouri were natives of Georgetown, Scott county, this state. Though only 18 years of age, and not fleshy, she weighs over 500 pounds, and stands eight feet two inches tall. She is a descendant of the Geu. Ewing family.

CONGRESSMAN Scott, of Illinois has introduced a bill to repeal the sugar bounty. Since the "free sugar" law went into effect the Government has paid a bounty of $7,000,000 to the sugar producers, all out of the money extorted from the people by unjust tariff taxation. This is not all, for $4,000,000 more of claims are awaiting adjudication. The cotton planters of the South, white and colored, who are being run down at a pound raising cotton, and the farmers of Kansas who have used for fuel the corn they could not sell, have had to worry along without assistance from the federal government and Mr. Scott proposes to put the sugar millionaires on the same footing as the agriculturists. In the meantime, if anybody still doubts that the tariff is a tax he has only to study the results of the McKinley bill, which took the duty off sugar and made the government assume the amount heretofore extorted from the people, since the market value of the article made free.

The Ghost of a Dead Congress.

As an act of congress the COURIER publishes a communication from Doctor Singletary on the subject of "Flat Money," and not because it is a live issue—for it is not, and in the nature of things cannot be for generations in this country. His position is that the "stamp of the Government" is all that is needed to make paper, or anything, good money; and the COURIER holds that the United States, nor no other one Government, sufficiently dominates the business affairs of the world as to be able to give such uniformity of value to substances used as money as to constitute a sound and honest currency for the people. The necessary and indispensable traffic that is always going on between people if the different countries of the world desires to any one country he privilege of arbitrarily saying by its stamp what shall be money and the value thereof, but in a measure forces each to recognize a standard of money values, as the United States, by its stamp, could make so cheap a commodity as paper money, and hold its value to a standard that the commerce of the world would receive and recognize as sound, then the untold wealth of our people would exceed the wildest dreams of the most optimistic. If it is true, why should the Government trouble or burden the people with any kind of taxation? Why not let the Government put its stamp upon paper and with it pay all its obligations and necessities at homeand abroad? It might force its paper at home, to a limited degree, but when we want people of other countries to take it in exchange for something they have that we want, our people cannot escape the test of the world's standard of money. This is the foundation basis of money, and reasoning from any other is nec essarily baseless, unreal, deceptive and false. The leading commercial countries of the world now recognize gold as the standard of value of money, and the action of the United States, much less of a political party or faction, cannot break this gold grip at will. The Democratic party, not solidly, but to a degree approaching unanimity, is a bi-metallic party, that is both gold and silver, and to this extent is trying to force the commerce of the world to loosen the gold grip standard; but the facts of the actual condition of the world's traffic presen difficulties that the intelligent minds roust recognize, and hence differences as to ways and methods.

The Democratic party stands, cardinally, for sound, honest money for use of the people. The opinions of one or more great leaders van't change facts. The votes even of members of Congress doesn't establish party convictions, unless the conditions under which the votes were given are understood. Hence such declarations are often misleading. The Democratic party, as is any minority party, is compelled to vote as between alternatives—to do the next best they can when they cannot get what they want. The 9 Alliance members of the present Congress are for the Bland Silver bill, and yet all men know that that bill does not answer the full expectations of the Alliance demands as to money. How misleading then to quote their vote as establishing the Alliance demands! And it is equally misleading to quote special votes as to Democrats, unless the surrounding conditions were understood. With that elucidation the people who desire to break the grip that the gold standard has upon the world in fixing values, the COURIER is in hearty sympathy, and the Democratic party is their true representative; but, like many another stubborn fact, it is as it is, and only wisdom and prudence can accomplish such results without hurting those whom we most desire to benefit.

Which is the Constitution?

In the case brought by Hon. Walter Evans and others to test the validity of the new Constitution, the Court of Appeals was unanimously of the opinion that Evans had no case, from the fact that the complainants had in no was suffered from any of the provisions of the new Constitution. But a majority of the Court does go further and express the opinion that the convention had no authority to make any changes in the instrument after it had been voted for and accepted by the people, and that the court would be bound to hold any such changes without authority when properly brought before them—that such changes are authority, however, until pronounced upon by the Court. The majority hold that the Constitution accepted and voted for by the people is the Constitution.

Good for Senator George.

Whilst many legislators are engrossed in instructing Congress on questions of Federal politics, our own Senator, Henry George, is trying to secure some practical improvements for his home counties. On Friday last he introduced a bill which proposes to authorize the Sinking Fund Commissioners to sell the shares belonging to the State in the Frankfort, Versailles and Lexington, the Maysville and Lexington and the Covington and Lexington Turnpike Companies, the sale to be at public outcry in the city of Lexington on the first court day after the bill becomes a law. The proceeds, to the extent of $600 per mile, shall be diverted to the construction of gravel roads or turnpikes in the counties of Hickman, Carlisle, Fulton, Ballard, Graves, Calloway and Marshall, provided said counties shall supplement this with an additional $600 per mile.

Many years ago the State appropriated $600 a mile to aid in building turnpikes in the sections named, and it added materially to improving the counties which accepted the offer. Now the State's stock can be sold at fair valuation, and Senator George's bill proposes to transfer the same aid toward helping to improve the counties of Western Kentucky, a section that derived no benefit whatever from the State's former liberality, though we paid our proportionate part of the then State tax to secure it for others. As an original proposition the question of State aid to internal improvements may not be wise, but George's bill simply gives us an opportunity to accept benefits which we have already been forced help pay for.

FIAT MONEY.

Editor Courier:

In your last issue, after paying me a very flattering notice, and saying that your intentions are good (and you can even save wide of the mark, and may mislead your readers

The law I referred to, and I publish it to say the Democratic party fails to make it operable, was an act approved March 3, April 12, 1866, and authorizing a tax on all Notes & Bills Taxes in excess of our said bond-debt, which now and ever since, have suppressed our power. The law contemplated our circulating more than one hundred dollars per capita, and to make it operable authorized the National Banks to count it, assets and deposites in money of our country. Further, these said debts were allowed to pass by and mercurially rise above par with our gold and silver as a large interest payable in advance, thus giving the upper tens riches to the detriment of the balance of the millions and produces of the poor—the 9090 —which was and is class population of the worst sort. And by cancelling the Congressional Records of dates given we find the votes as follows: Senate—Yeas, 27 Republicans, 27; Democrats, 5; Nay, Republicans, 7; House Yea, Republicans 53, Dems nays 28. Nay Republicans, 53, Democrats 8. Now you can see at a glance that the Democrats could have killed that act if they would, but they secretly made it a law by their votes. So your criticism on me is wrong.

"In Singletary is the most outspoken fiat money man we have heard for years.

"If course, I am for fiat money! Am not? All money is fiat money. Gold, silver, nickel, copper greenbacks, national bank notes, gold certificates, silver certificates, &c., are all fiat money, and every payer of taxes and preaching me wrong fully, you conclude your article with this: Among the very few of my kind, how.

"The Democrats prefer greenbacks, * * and they hold that the money is a creature of law, and should be issued direct to the interested business interests and the masses, * * they * * hold that this should be limited by the needs of trade and commerce.

That is good Alliance doctrine. But I guess from your chat that you believe in the National Bank system now in operation. Am I right? If so, you part company with us—with Jefferson, with Jackson, and others, and I very curiously question your Democracy—Jackson Democracy.

You set up Constantinople as your man and proceed to decapitate it. Well, just set up some more and kill them if you choose, as there is nothing in them whatever to us.

"If the Government's stamp is all that is needed to make paper good money, why ask the farmers to mortgage their lands, or the products of their fields to secure us.

Well, well. Do you not know that they are their chief stock in trade? In these lie the foundation and the wealth of our nation. They are the true basis upon which to loan or issue paper money. Before 1873, $ bonds, bottom these lands and products are the only basis on which the bonds do, or can, rest—the source from which the bonds must be paid off.

I trust you will do us justice and investigate these things; they are no so complicate as I might put them.

DON SINGLETARY.

"When the road tax was delected in the county, many men were really in favor of a road tax, but opposed it in order to get need consequently voted against it."—Caldwell Star.

Probably a road law will never be framed exactly to suit the element referred to. The real friends of road improvement must learn to vote for any law that points in the right direction to begin with, and trust to obtaining such amendments as experience and necessity may demonstrate to be wise and needed.

—The House committee on rivers and harbors was entertained last week by a delegation from the Western waterways convention, held in Evansville last October, which resulted in the unanimous declaration of a general policy of waterways improvements that Congress is formulating into a practical plan, and intends carrying out by liberal and necessary appropriations. The territory embraced within the boundaries of the States represented includes in its limits half the population of the Union, and practically all the fruitful soil and mineral deposits, 65 per cent. of the wheat-growing area of North America, and substantially all the tobacco and corn lands and all the cotton plantations.

THE SEPARATE CAR QUESTION.

Aside from the question as to whether or not separate coaches should be set apart for whites and blacks, we commend the following article, from the Frankfort Capital, to our colored friends as showing what the Democratic party in Kentucky has done for them:

The colored people have the separate schools, and good ones, largely paid for by the white people, and they do not ask for mixed schools in Kentucky. They have their separate churches and do not ask or care to attend those of the white people. They live, as far as possible, in separate communities from the whites in town and cities. They separate themselves from choice in all these things; yet when it is proposed that, for the good of all concerned, they shall have separate coaches on railroad trains, they propose that a great inequity is going to be put upon them. They have separate places in theaters; they have their separate hotels at boarding houses; they have their separate newspapers, yet they are not consent to separate apartments on railroad cars. No outrages to degrade the colored people. Kentucky has always treated them well. In the dessert of gorgeous luxury that loaded the tables of those figures, beholding that of President Hayes, who is in the rear, are and I, the applaud. As soon as the shock of the late murder of Washington resumes its wonted state, and all is quiet until the absence of Death again sounds the hour on the gong, when the extraordinary scene is repeated. The scene of the assassination, existing him as they pass. The possession disappears through a door in the opposite side of the platform, which is opened and closed by a servant in gorgeous livery. The Presidents and those figures, including —Turnip greens and hog jowl are ripe. Garnished with poached eggs, eaten with corn bread and washed down with buttermilk, the average Kentuckian is never happier than when the bill of fare reads as above. The dish is one fit for a king.

—Miss Sophia Stubbs, daughter of Mr. Berry Stubbs, living near this city, died on Saturday last, of consumption, aged 20 years. She was a kind and affectionate young lady, and was highly esteemed by those who knew her. Sincere sympathy is tendered the bereaved relatives.

—The Assessor's books show something over 1000 sheep in this county, and the Courier-Journal of 10,000, which made too many sheep for the aggregate valuation. Assessor Carter is too good a judge of sheep meat at a Mud Creek barbecue to make such a wild valuation as the Courier charged him with.

—Uncle Josse Jordan, the oldest resident of Clinton, died the past week, aged 78 years, 6 months and 1 day. He was a native of North Carolina, and had been a resident of Hickman county for 60 years past. He served in the Black Hawk war. An aged wife and several children are left to mourn his loss.

—The officials of the Charleston (Mo.) Methodist church have extended a cordial invitation to Sam Jones to visit the city and inaugurate a revival, guaranteeing to him an audience composed of the country surrounding Charleston for a distance of twenty miles, including all of Cairo. It is expected that a reply naming a date will be received in a few days.

—Mrs. John Waddell, of Paducah, found her husband and a young lady alone together and cowhided both.

—A splinter at Louisville unsuccessfully sued to recover a baby from a young wife. Both claim to be the child's mother.

—Mr. John J. Noonan, the photograph artist of this city, was married on the 15th inst. to Miss S. C. Smith. He is a worthy man, and deserves every joy and happiness.

—A recent applicant for a teacher's certificate, in a county in Illinois, wrote in answer to a question, that the "vegetable kingdom of Australia was divided into ten grand divisions, known as the animal and mineral;" and in answer to the question as to how our laws were "enacted," answered that they were "enacted by the grand jury."

—Mr. Will M. Murphy and Miss Birdie Waters, daughter of the late Ed. K. Waters, were married in Fulton, on Monday the 15th. The bride is one of the sweetest, most truthful, and accomplished young girls we ever knew, and the bridegroom, we understand, is worthy in every respect. There is no blessing possible that we do not sincerely wish for them.

—W. H. Evans, familiarly known as "Wild Bill," has been confined to a meeting at Jackson, Tenn., and among other propositions took the vote of the congregation as to his methods employed. Presiding Elder Evans lead the fight against "Wild Bill," and the majority sustained the Elder. It created a big sensation. Wild Bill then requested all who did not endorse him to stay at home.

—On Wednesday, the 24th of February, the different lodges of the Knights of Honor of Hickman and Fulton counties are to meet in delegate convention at Moscow, to select a place to celebrate the anniversary of the order, in June. The anniversary celebration is expected to be a grand occasion, distinguished orators, neighboring Tennessee and Kentucky lodges invited, &c.

—Senator George, of this District has introduced a bill in the Kentucky Senate, to pension all disabled ex-Federal and ex-Confederate soldiers in the State, not now receiving pensions. Since nearly all the Federal boys are now on the pension list the Confeds. would be provided for. They are to be given from $8 to $20 a month so long as they use the money for their support. The bill will hardly become a law.

—Subscribe for a good political paper during the Presidential campaign. D. E. WILSON & CO. are publishers' agents for all newspapers and magazines. Hand subscriptions to them. 1:22

—A 5 year old daughter of Ilman McConnell, a wealthy colored citizen, was burned to death, Thursday evening last. The wife of McConnell had gone from home, leaving three children in the house and during her absence the clothing of this little girl caught from the wood fire, and before help could be had to extinguish the flames, her body was burned to an extent that she died that night. Sympathy is extended to the afflicted parents.

—Judge N. P. Moss and Commonwealth's Attorney Sam Cross land, made brief talks Monday, announcing their candidacy for Circuit Judge. Mr. Wm. Smith, who is understood to be a candidate, was not present. These gentlemen are well and popularly known, and the competence of each is conceded. It is simply considered a fact, in advance of the action of the Legislature, that the new judicial district will be composed of the counties of Graves, Hickman, Fulton, Carlisle and Ballard. It is so understood at Frankfort.

—A bill to protect the fish in all the running streams of this Commonwealth has passed the Lower House of the Legislature. It is made unlawful for any person to use a set-net, seine or hand-fling. And any person who uses a drug or medicated bait or dynamite, with intent to injure, poison or catch fish, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and fined $25 for each offense. The finder of any contrivance made in pursuance of the unlawful purpose of catching fish is delegated the power to destroy same and he shall be allowed by the county court $1 for each set or fish-rack so destroyed.

—Every newspaper man, says an exchange, has at some time or another in business experience, met the man "who now takes more papers than he can read." He was in town last week. He wiped his nose on the awning; tried to blow out the electric light at the hotel; failed to light his cigar on it; paid 25 cents for an almanac; cut a nickel in the slot at the post-office and kicked because the mail did not appear; wanted to kick the cashier because he closed at 4 o'clock, and watched the clock stop in front of a jewelry store, waiting for it to strike, and he takes more newspapers than he can read.

—According to present indications, says the Louisville Commercial, the spring models are to be designed for but one type, one age, one shape and one size of womankind. If you are not dilatorily tall, with broad shoulders, a supernent waist, an oval face, and pounds of money, don't expect any consideration from the powers that be. If you can't endure the pressure of a waist one and a half inches too small for you, don't try to be a new grace, for they are making bodices this season according to schedule proportions, and they can't be changed. If you are "fair, fat and forty," you might as well take the veil and be good since you can't be stylish.

—Judge W. W. Robertson, of Graves county, announced his candidacy for Congress, Monday, and did not enter into any discussion of political issues. There is no man in the District for whom the people have a higher respect as to ability and integrity. The indications now are that there will be a number of candidates for the Democratic nomination. Judge James Campbell, a strong, popular and able man, and one who has the confidence of the people to the highest degree, is understood to be a candidate. There is no authority for saying that Capt. Stone will seek to be his own successor, but he is considered almost invincible in the District, and the general expectation is that he will be a candidate. Besides these, Gaitrell, of Trigg, and Allen, of Caldwell are probable candidates.

—Our girls are making the most of Leap year, if we may believe one of the fairest and most sensible of them. But now and then a mistake is made and a pretty young miss comes to grief just as in the case with the boys when they are impatient and exhibit undue haste in the matters of the heart. We have heard of one young lady who came to grief. She had a beau who, until recently, had been paying her devoted attention, calling twice a week, but he was timid. She had grown desperate when New Year came and was determined to teach him a lesson. One night, a few weeks ago, he called, and after growing confidential the young miss drew close to him on the sofa and took him by the hand, saying: "Now, my dear boy, I'll show you how we girls do things. Will you avail yourself of this opportunity to become my promised husband?" "I can't, for I am already engaged to another girl." Her eyes flash ed and she said: "There's the door; and please be very quick about it, too."

A NEW COURT HOUSE.

The campaign of education which our Alliance friends have inaugurated for the farmers is a step in the right direction and worthy of imitation, and may well be applied to every public necessity and benefit. Without well informed ideas all undertaking of importance should be attempted, and without adequate knowledge among a laudable enterprise has been shipwrecked. Knowledge gives light, faith confidence, and success is the result.

What have these things to do with the head lines of this article? Much. Principle does always, and should be observed, truth and right will prevail as to all questions when justice is attained.

For first question is, what ought a county house to be? You are required to have a Circuit Court Clerk's office, a County Court Clerk's office, a County Judge's office and sufficient jury rooms—at least a grand jury room and a petit jury room. These are required by law, and then you ought to have such other conveniences as your business demands. There is actually need of a room for those excluded from the court house as witnesses.

How are these varied requirements? If not they ought to be furnished, and as our questions can appropriately be called to the attention of our citizens. Think of it, fellow citizens, and from your consciences, and our present court house, say if we ought not to have a new court house.

RUSTICUS.

As indignant tenant and a rather negligent landlord were overheard in the following conversation in front of the Monument, Monday evening:

Tenant (indignantly)—"My chimney smokes."

Landlord—"What does it smoke?"

Tenant (now indignantly)—"It smokes everything."

Landlord—"Has it tried cubebs?"

Tenant—"Cubebs!"

Landlord—"Yes. Give it cubebs. The chimney has probably got the catarrh, and smoking cubebs will clear the passage."—Danbury News.

Circuit Court Items.

Circuit Court convened Monday, Judge Randle presiding, and Commonwealth Attorney Crossland representing the State. Business is progressing reasonably well.

Louis Marks, col., for wilfully and maliciously shooting Bill Carter, col., was given 4 years in the penitentiary.

The jury returned a verdict of not guilty in the case of Dan Crowder, col., for hog stealing.

The case against W. W. Blythe, for shooting, was consolidated with the case against J. P. Morris, same offense and submitted to same jury. Verdict of guilty and a fine of $10 against each.

William Hester, for grand larceny, was given one year.

The case against Si Wiley, for rape, was dismissed for want of proof.

Hon. W. M. Smith, in a five minutes' speech, announced himself as a candidate for the office of Circuit Judge of this Judicial District.

The bar is filled with prominent visiting attorneys: Messrs. Flournoy, Thomas, Cardwell and Steele, of Fulton; Smith and Anderson, of Mayfield; Bullock, of Clinton; Tyler, Taylor, Lowe, Owenby and Burnett, of Tennessee.

Judge Ed. Starks, of the Fulton Pulliamian, is attending court.

J. P. Yates and Thos. N. Smith presented a certificate from the County Court and made application for license to practice law and to be admitted to the bar.

GRAND JURY.

Thos. Dillon, jr., foreman; J. P. Meacham, T. R. Lanoux, W. B. Beauchamp, J. M. Freeman, J. M. Wiley, W. N. Treas, John O. Roper, J. S. Belt, John W. Ballow, T. S. Fields and J. A. Townsend.

PETIT JURY.

John Stahr B. Parham, Arthur Klug, C. E. Harper, C. P. Linder, W. G. Kingman, W. T. Crostle, S. Fields, T. E. Perigan, Louis Atwell, A. R. Johnson, B. F. Green, A. M. McClure, A. H. Leet, J. W. Cole, Israel Clark, H. C. Isbell, W. T. Buckner, W. H. Sigmon, J. H. Blair, W. S. Bard, W. P. Reed, C. L. Walker and B. Moore.

—Every new brings forth some novelty in the vegetable line. A few years ago experiments of producing a Bush Lima Bean—or to put it in different language better understood, a bunch butter bean—was made a success. This year the seed men are advertising for the first time the Tree Tomato. If this thing keeps on it will not be long before watermelons are growing on trees.

MARRIED.

On the 15th inst., Mr J M Creasey to Mrs Hattie Bay.

On the 14th inst., Mr Will M Murphy to Miss Birdie Waters.

On the 18th inst., Mr. Wiley Peoples to Miss Nancy Gordon.

On the 15th inst., Mr John J Noonan, of this city, to Miss S C Smith.

Tired of Business.

Growing Old!

We have sold our stock of Groceries to Mr. Alfred McDaniel, of our city, who will continue the business at our old stand. Mr. Mc. has a young man, fully posted in the trade. We ask our old patrons and friends to remember our successor when they want Groceries. We promise all that we will be treated right.

We have also rented the Commercial Hotel to Mr. D. B. Bryant, the popular, affable "Dave." All that stands for this popular house will find the best of fare, kind treatment, affability, good jokes, etc. To the Commercial and you will not regret it. Stop once and you will stop again.

Having got our consent to quit business, we now offer our Agricultural business for sale, consisting of Farm Machinery, Plows, &c. Also, in connection with this line, Cement, Field Seeds, Feed for Live Stock—Hay Corn, Bran, Oats, &c., all of which is in our warehouse, convenient, close by, and, until we do sell, will be pleased to have those wanting anything in this line to call see us.

Now we come to property, for sale, but is worth talking about—a bonanza in proper hands. In consequence of our junior partner's (W. D. Pywell) health giving way, not able to attend to the mill business any longer, we offer our Flouring Mill etc., for sale.

This mill is a low run mill, consisting of 2 Wheat and 2 Corn Burrs, 1 Middling Grinder, Grain Cleaners, both for wheat and corn; Smut Machine, 2 Purifiers, Bolting Chests, ample capacity, first-class Bolting Cloths, Bran Duster, Corn Meal Bolt, Elevator, Grain Bins for second floor; 45 horse power Greenwald Engine, Flour and Grain Elevators, Packers, 2 sets Scales, all of which is the best of its kind that money would buy. The mill house thoroughly and staunchly built, braced and hog-chained in every direction, and consists of basement, 3 main floors and garret—good room for grain—metal roof and well under mill roof to supply boiler.

In connection with mill house we have quite a good sized warehouse—two floors—in which we have a complete Cotton tin, out-fit, Shaw gin, steam power Cotton Press, Corn Sheller capacity 2,500 bushels per day; Corn Crusher, Paired Feed Lowan and Sacks, and a good cistern in this building. This warehouse is quite convenient, and staunchly constructed. The machinery is all driven by our mill engine which has ample power to grind grain, gin and bale cotton at same time. There are 4 lots with this plant, ample room for wood yard and grain elevator should it be needed. Well situated on river bank, and saving bank near. A shipment by river taken out of mill house—no drayage, which makes it quite a convenience and saving. This property is for sale at a BARGAIN. But the one dwelling mill in the city, and mill men have frequently said that it was a splendid mill plant. Population of our city about 2,500, and surrounded with a splendid country, fine for wheat and corn —plenty of grain.

We would take liberal stock should a company organize to buy this property. Terms made easy.

Parties going as will please call at once, at our old stand, and pay issue.

A Little Girl's Experience in a Nightdream.

Mr. and Mrs. Loren Tressel are keepers of the Log Tavern at Sand Beach, Mich., and are blessed with a daughter, four years old. Last April she was taken down with measles, followed with a dreadful Cough and running into a Fever. Doctors at home and Detroit treated her, but to vain, she grew worse rapidly, until she was a mere shadow of herself. Then she tried Dr King's New Discovery and after the use of two and a half bottles, was completely cured. They say Dr King's New Discovery is worth its weight in gold, you may get a trial bottle free at C. A. Holcomb's Drug store.

TO DAY we remember the birthday of one old Who have slept for a century under the mould; We remember the spirit undaunted and proud, That Washington carried through sunshine and cloud.

The years pass away like the leaves on the trees,
But the flag he uplifted still floats in the breeze;
Weird Time he reverses his mystical glass,
And the phantoms of fancy they dreamily pass
The tireless tragon tosses, he cannot forget,
Where the rebels chain'd Liberty to the dust;
The midnight awhence to hoof-beat that rings
A message of freedom—defiance to kings!
Adown through the ages that sound—Paul Revere—

On history's pages the centuries bear
Old memories echo around us to-day
From Lexington, listen to sound of the fray!
While Concord, ancestral, sends back the alarm,
And minute men gather from homestead and farm

There Davis of Acton for liberty fell;
Of Bedrick and Prentice in history tell;
From the shores of the Mystic the low bills arise
To your memory, Warren, that shaft to the skies.

That mist of glory that crowns Bunker hill,
The spirit of Adams is guarding it still.
There Prescott and Putnam mingled with fate,
There Starks led to battle the old Granite state,
Where cannons, not glory, the patriots sought—
Immortal to story the hill where they fought—
There Knowlton, unshrouded in slumber and fame,
Upheld like a hero Connecticut's name.

As long as Connecticut honors her sons,
Her Knowlton and Hale shall be glorified one.
Firearm. In your valor old England takes pride
Brave Irishman undaunted, your soldier you die
Thrice leading your rearcaus up the green coast
In Washington's Army beloved as no first
From Virginia comes to the state by the sea
The trappers of Morgan in hunter's array.
From the banks of Pocahontas from Randolph's bay,
Via,

The heroes of Lexington bid you: All hail!"
Here the "Head of the Army" meets Liberty's gaze.

His welcome to Cambridge the enemy's guns
The haughty invaders were driven away
Fort Sullivan, Trenton, Long Island—each name
Is written in blood upon tablets of fame.
Fort Sullivan's flag the white crescent on blue
Over Jasper its lustrous folds proudly to-day
How Charleston rejoiced when the blue banner flew,

Your memory is fragrant and defiance to foe—
At Long Island, John Callender would not retreat,
But remained with his guns on the field of defeat.
The name of a coward that the gunner hal woo
On the heights of the Mystic that day was he known
What glories Champlain, as you lie at the best
Of "Crown Point" and "Old Ty," your blue waves could repeat;
Those fortresses frowning they echo the story
Of old Ethan Allen and Green mountain's boys!
On the walls of Quebec listening sentinels hear
The rallying of midnight the last of the year
As Montgomery, storming the hot cannon's breath,
Beneath the stern fortress met boldly his death
Christmas eve has survived on the Delaware cold
He is holding high festival, Washington bold.
For the Hessians a feast Christmas day they prepare,
Those heroes that crossed the storm-tossed Delaware.
A festival ghastly, where blood shall be wine,
Where the wails on the dead shall be revelry's din.
Brave Morris the Quaker, immortal his glory,
The annals of Princeton emblazon his story.
New Brunswick rises a summit of fame,
Where Stark of New Hampshire led farmers to fame.
John Stark, the old hero, who fought by the side
Of Prescott and Putnam, where great Warren died.
Triumphant his banner he bore to the height,
And his wife, Mollie Stark, was no widow that night.
Saratoga, Stillwater—they each have their story,
While Monmouth, Fort Mercer are written in glory.
Brave General Wayne, who, the old annals tell,
Said if Washington planned it, his troops could take hell.
Stony Point and its capture shall ever remain
A monument fitting "Mad Anthony" Wayne.
West Point, at your bidding the ghosts from the tomb
And Andre the gifted goes forth to his doom
A spirit so noble, its fate so dread,
While pity is mixed, remembering Hale
Bold Benedict Arnold, how bravely he fought!
Has he be the traitor whose honor was bought!
His country a betrayer, a general brave,
He barnered his glory for renegade's grave.
Saratoga it gives his wife's name a place,
West Point has enshrouded his name in disgrace.
For Andre, Fort Griswold, he cannot atone.
Thou traitor who sprinkled the stain alone.
Hugo's mountain and Cooper's he fighting have seen,
Where the Tories went down before Campbell and Greene.
Nathaniel Greene, who, delving King George,
For freedom and country left anvil and forge.
Oh, blacksmith immortal, resounding your blows,
That arm when uplifted struck terror to foes
On the crest of the tempest a rainbow appears
And Yorktown illumines the darkness of years
The star spangled banner, the lilies of France,
Triumphant in victory, encircle at once
Though lives of the bravest, and millions it cost,
King George has been vanquished—an empire is lost.
Cornwallis is taken—the victory's on.
On history's pages a nation is born.
Old England, our kindred in language and blood,
Each year brings us closer across the wild flood,
In your sorrow we weep, in your gladness rejoice,
And as children, remember the lost mother's voice.
The cradle songs taught us in years that are flown,
Your Shakespeare and Milton as dear as our own.

IT was after the battle of Princeton, in the year 1777, and Washington and his little band of patriots had made a successful retreat to the safe in the rugged hills of New Jersey.

It's grateful shade was cheerless warmth and comfort. Its recent brilliant victories, on the plains of Princeton, stood in the unpretentious cabin of Mrs. Ewing.

She was the widow of Jasper Ewing, a valiant patriot soldier and a martyr to the cause of the revolutionary struggles. Here she and her daughter, Rachel, a lovely girl of eighteen with rose cheeks and dark eyes, lived alone, deriving a meager livelihood from their few acres of tillable land below the hills.

Mrs. Ewing and Rachel were firm patriots, and, though they mourned deeply over their great loss, their courage was of too high a nature to yield to despair and condemn the cause which had deprived them of a protector.

There was one in the neighborhood who would gladly have done all in his power to lessen the trials of the widow and daughter. That was Charles Rigney, whose father's well-cultivated fields lay just across the stream from the Ewing place.

Young Rigney and Rachel had grown up together from childhood, and had gone to the same school. Later, this early friendship had ripened into love on Rigney's side, but Rachel did not reciprocate his fancy. Indeed his passion and attention had begun to annoy her considerably, and several times she was on the point of dismissing him in such a way that there would be no mistaking her real feelings toward him.

But they had been friends so long, and friends in those times meant a great deal to two lone women. She could not bear the thought of hurting Rigney's feelings, for he came a time, however, when she was forced to speak very plainly.

The gloaming of a cheerless winter evening was falling over the woody bluff. Rachel was making her chickens sang for the night, when Charles Rigney's step in the yard, and entered a small closet, adjoining the kitchen.

The table where the troopers sat was only a few feet from where the girl crouched, and inclining her ear she could distinctly hear all their conversation.

Rigney had made himself comfortable before the fireplace, when the widow spoke:

"Well, what news?"

"Good!" returned Rigney, e triumphant ring in his voice.

"So we bag the young fox to-night?"

"Yes, to-night. You will then remove my enemy from my path, and at the same time capture one who can tell you all Washington's plans which he is no doubt hatching up over at Morristown."

"Hated fiend!" cried the leader. "That's what Cornwallis would give a deal to know, just the precise plans that are concocting in the brain of that sly old fox. The young officer can supply that information, if we have to torture it out of him. But how did you manage the business?"

"Listen. You remember I told you I was watching the major's movements closely. Well, to-day he has been visiting at his grandparents', who live six miles from here on the Morristown road. I've just come from him. In my disguise I carried to him a false message from the widow Ewing, who reported very ill and very desirous of seeing him to-night. The major's deal in love with the girl here, and of course soon gave his promise to come, as soon as he can break away from his grandfather, who dotes on him and pays much attention from his precious major, when Washington lets him ren over to see the girl he loves so much him. He'll be here in an hour at least. Keep an eye open, and let the game walk right into the snare."

Rachel Ewing waited to hear no more, but crept noiselessly back up the ladder and reported what she had heard to her mother.

"Rigney has formed a vile plot to have Maj. Wayland captured by those rough soldiers brought here for that purpose. But I will outwit him, see if I don't!" and the girl's eyes flashed resolutely.

SHE SPED THROUGH THE NIGHT AND THE STORM.

"Your mind is contaminnted with this foolish patriot business and you love another. I know him, and I shall find a way to have my revenge and humble your pride, Rachel Ewing!"

He started here a look of triumphant anger, then sprung into his saddle and rode away down the bluff.

Robert Wayland, an officer in the colonial service with Washington, was a handsome young man, gentle, manly and courteous, and of high social qualities. His own parents had died when he was very young and his had been kindly educated by his grandparents, who lived some six miles distant from Mrs. Ewing's cabin.

It had been Robert Wayland who had brought them the first tidings of Mr. Ewing's death and the young officer's kindness and gentle consideration during the sad period which followed quite won the motherly esteem of the widow and the heart of the daughter.

A week went by and Rachel Ewing had nearly ceased to think of Rigney's threat to have revenge.

He would surely have enough manhood not to injure two defenseless women; then how could he find an opportunity to harm the young officer in Washington's camp?

A cold, stormy day was drawing to a close, as Rachel stood at a window in her mother's cabin and watched the descent of the snowflakes.

She had gone but a half mile, when the steady stroke of horses' feet striking the hard, frozen road behind her told that her flight had been discovered and pursuers were on her track.

Like a frightened bird she sped along through the night and storm. The fleet horse of the man whom she was outwitting into the darkness was no match, and she soon left the pursuers far behind.

The sounds of her pursuers now reached her more distinctly, and, despite the speed at which her horse was going, she began to fear they were gaining on her.

Three miles passed by in that wild ride and Rachel realized that her pursuers were indeed gaining ground.

Did fate decree that they should overtake her? Must the man she loved fall into the net so artfully spread to catch him?

"Never!" she aried to herself, and, remembering the loaded pistol in her pocket, the fearless girl urged her horse forward.

She had just crossed the little ford of the stream that wound across her path, when a horseman, coming rapidly from an opposite direction, reined in before her, grasping her bridle rein in a firm hold.

She believed, in her sudden terror, that it was one of Rigney's allies stationed there who had stopped her, and she was about yielding to despair when a familiar voice called:

"Why, Rachel!"

In another moment the cold little hands were in his warm ones, and he was listening to a rapid account of her brave mission.

They were soon riding on at breakneck speed, where two American troopers had just arrived with a message from Gen. Washington for the young major.

Leaving Rachel in his grandmother's comfortable home, Maj. Wayland, followed by the two American troopers, chased his foe down the road and beyond Mrs. Ewing's cabin.

Bold, had men are usually cowards at heart, and they fled wildly before the three valiant patriots.

Rigney was severely punished for the revenge he had tried to take. He was thrown from the horse, which in its ran riding in pursuit of the girl who outwitted him so fearlessly, and was rendered a cripple for the rest of his days.

Maj. Wayland married Rachel Ewing soon after her brave ride to save him, and the trials of herself and mother were past.

SHOOTING AN ALLIGATOR.

The Rare Sport Found in Slaying the Saurians.

The cars were stopped, resting in the water; the skiff half turned, drifting in the sluggish tide; the long beam of the lantern, with the oval disk of dingy red, resting far out on the surface, swept slowly around over the waters looking for the two lost lights. Ten minutes or more thus passed, and suddenly the two lost sparks gleamed back in a new direction, and together, side by side as the port oar headed the skiff toward them again. "Discernment" whispered the old fisherman, still more engrossed in the task of the moment. "Discernment" repeated the engineer, with a slight tone of reproof in his voice, as if he thought that from the committee on banking and currency, he should be willing to speak for himself on these matters.

ARTIFICIAL BEAUTIFIERS.

"The World is All a Fleeting Show to Man's Illusion Given."

The art of beautifying the complexion by artificial means is very old. The women of gray antiquity knew how to give their cheeks the rosy hue which could be had denied them. In Nineveh the practice of enamelling was quite common. The skin was made smooth and soft with pumice-stone and then covered with a layer of white chemical preparations. A toilet case found in the ruins of Thebes contained a whole arsenal full of little bottles of perfumes and complexion mediums. The custom of painting the face was brought to taul and germany by the Romans. A few centuries later one hundred different salves for the complexion were sold in the German markets.

In modern times France has been the great manufacturer and consumer of cosmetics. In England, too, the use of them has been general. In 1676 the English parliament found it expedient to consider a bill to effect that all such women, without distinction as to the age or rank, maidens as well as widows, who by dyed, colored, or painted hairs of his majesty and enticed them into marriage by means of paint, salve, or washball, false hair, high heels, false silk wool, corsets or padded hips should be punished under the provisions of the law against sorcery and that the marriage should be declared null." That old law was just too innocent for anything.

It undoubtedly fell into innocuous desuetude when it was found how the practice could be effectively used by women deceiving the female subjects of his majesty with plumpers, wigs, false teeth, dyed whiskers, corsets, and the fiddly manners of youth, assumed with great pain in company with the rheumatism of old age. The German statistician who is said to have accurate data concerning the use of cosmetics among the civilized world, estimates that the money which American women pay every year for cosmetics would pay for the painting of twenty-seven thousand houses at the expense of seventy-five dollars per house. This belief to be drawn from most of science whose faces are made ruddy by beer. The faces of women are clear and if they can be harmlessly improved by the use of an artificial bloom of youth it is strictly honest to put on the bloom.—San Francisco Call.

Too High Priced for George.

Washington's coachman, named a man named Francois, who liked good living and with whom Washington occasionally quarreled about the marketing. One time he bought a shad in February, and as Washington sat down to dinner he found the shad had been served steamer Missala, from Palermo, reaching New York January 24.

Sarah Can't Get Married.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 16.—Mrs. Terry has been found at the home of Madame Pleasance, a notorious woman who was Mrs. Terry's nurse several yearsago and who has always been her firm friend. Mr. Terry's maid is still under arrest.

Germany Uneasy About Socialism.

PARIS, Feb. 16.—The German government is becoming more and more uneasy over the growth of the socialists. The emperor would like to employ more energetic measures for its suppression. A definite policy has not yet been adopted, but we must expect soon to hear of a decision to take serious action.

Frozen to Death.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 16.—Martin Neugard, of this city, was found in the roadway about three-fourths of a mile from his home this morning, frozen to death. He had been drinking, and evidently was unable to get home.

Steamer Eugenia Sinks in the Arkansas River.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 16.—The steamer Eugenia, plying between Memphis and Pine Bluff, Ark., struck a snag five miles north of Helena and went to the bottom of the river. No lives were lost. The boat is worth $18,000, with no insurance. Four hundred bales of cotton and several hundred bags of cotton seed made up the cargo. The boat is the property of the Memphis and Arkansas River Packet Co.

Sixty people suspected of being anarchist have been arrested in Belgium.
